5. Information concerning the circle of supporters:

As a charity organisation, the project office does not have sufficient own funds to finance the sending of ambassadors abroad, hence a significant part of the expenses has to be covered from donations. Donations are collected by the Ambassadors themselves, who are encouraged to start a „circle of supporters of the Biodynamic Ambassadors Project“. These circles of supporters do not only have the function of collecting donations, but also give the Ambassador and his/her community an opportunity to become active and exchange ideas about biodynamics and its world-wide development. The donations flow into a common fund that the project office manages and uses to ensure that interested individuals from all financial backgrounds have a chance to become an Ambassador.
